THE SUPREME COURT DECISION.

There is a grave condition of things in Kansas resulting from the recent decision of the supreme court of the United States in the Iowa liquor case. The dissenting opinion of the four judges contains the following paragraph which will explain why there is great anxiety in Kansas over the decision:

If the statutes of a state restricting or prohibiting the sale of intoxicating liquors within its territory shall be held inoperative and void as applied to liquor sent or brought from another state and sold by the importer in what are called original packages the consequence must be that the inhabitants of any state may, under the pretext of interstate commerce, and that without license or supervision of any public authority, carry or send into or sell in any or all of the other states of the Union intoxicating liquors of whatever description, in cases, and in single bottles or flasks, despite any legislation of those states on the subject, and although his own state should be the only one that had not enacted similar laws.

It would mean from the opinion of a majority of the court, that liquor may be shipped into a prohibition state and sold by the importer in the original packages without being liable to arrest by the state laws. The attorney general of Kansas, a lawyer of considerable ability and prominence, says of the decision, "I am surprised and disappointed at the decision. It is simply repugnant, as I interpret it, the decision of the United States supreme court made forty years ago, and which has been the law during that period. The court then held that a New Hampshire party could not bring into Vermont, contrary to the prohibitory law in force in the latter state, a barrel of gin, bearing the government revenue stamp and sell the same in the original barrel in violation of the laws of Vermont. It is as serious and possibly as dangerous a decision as the famous Dred Scott decision of pro-slavery days."

The decision to the Kansas people is all the more surprising for the reason, to use the language of the attorney general, "I fear that it is a serious, if not a fatal blow to prohibition. Our law has never attempted to prohibit the importation of liquor into this state; for the framers of the law well knew that that could not be done under the statutes of the United States regulating the traffic of common carriers between the states. We have only sought to prevent the sale of such liquor. This decision says in substance that we can not prevent the sale of such liquor as long as they remain in the unbroken original package."

There does not seem to be a way out of this difficulty except by a law of congress which shall provide that "interstate shipments of liquor shall be subject to the same restrictions as state shipments. That would allow each state to adopt prohibition or not as it might see fit, the general government simply standing neutral, and adjusting its authority over interstate commerce to the local law of each state."

It is very doubtful if a majority of the present congress or any congress, would be in favor of enacting such a law, although there is justice in such a measure.

LET THE BILL PASS.

It is said that the republicans in congress will push the tariff discussion as rapidly as possible, bring the bill to a vote as early as practicable, and try to adjourn congress by the middle of July. If this can be done, the republicans will do something for which they will be commended by the country.

There are some plain reasons why the tariff bill should pass. First, a revision of the tariff schedule is necessary; and second, there does not seem to be the least prospect that a more perfect bill can be agreed upon. The time never will come when all republicans will be in perfect harmony on a tariff measure. The conflict of interests will always make a division of sentiment on the tariff issue, and there is no wonder about this. Men can never think alike when their business interests clash, so that there is nothing to be gained by making further delay or trying to suit every section of the country on tariff legislation. What is advantageous to one individual may be opposed to the success of another; so the only thing for the republicans to do is to frame the bill that will injure the least and do the general average will do the most service to trade and commerce.

This is the only thing that can be done, and the sooner the bill becomes a law the better it will be for the business of the country. It cannot be expected that the democrats will support the bill, or any other bill the republicans can frame. They will oppose any tariff revision, however just and liberal, the republicans may agree upon, so that nothing can be gained by long arguments or attempting to compromise. The McKinley bill may have its faults, and doubtless it has, but in view of the conflict of republican sentiment on the tariff question, it is as fair a compromise measure as can be secured.

A republican paper down in Illinois prepared a republican manual which should be used in Wisconsin. It is as follows:

Let it be understood for once and all time: This is an off-year, and Republicans can not afford to simply whittle; they must saw wood and get there.

They've got to hustle, get up early and get out late, else the great enemy will swoop down upon us the next election and gobble the legislature, the United States Senatorship, the congressional reapportionment, and the general bakery, and leave us in the soup!

It might do some good to cut this out and paste it in the hat, as a reminder of republican duty this year.

Henry Waterson, in talking politics, says the republicans have their hands full. He is right. The republican party has always been a busy one, and has never seen the day when it did not have its hands full of public business, and it

ALL PARIS IS ALARMED.

MAY DAY USHERED IN AMID DEEP CONCERN IN FRANCE.

Every Precaution Taken to Prevent Disorder and Bloodshed—Other News From Foreign Lands.

PARIS, May 1.—The government is acting with vigor against the anarchists and all others who intend inciting disturbances. The troops in Paris have received orders to hold their rifles with ball cartridges, and the authorities have taken the pains to have the populace informed of that fact.

Louise Michel is again a prisoner, having been arrested in Lyons for taking part in the recent anarchist meetings here.

The police last night arrested three Italians who had been prominent in recent anarchist movements. When the police approached them the anarchists drew knives, whereupon the police drew their swords. A scuffle ensued, but the anarchists were overpowered and locked up. One of the anarchists arrested yesterday had in his possession a manifesto showing that he and his friends intended to devote themselves to sacking banks and shops in the riot which they had planned for today.

The force of watchmen at the banks has been doubled, and a strong detachment of police are guarding the Labor Exchange. Louise Michel, who was arrested with three other anarchists at Lyons, tried to evade arrest by representing that she was on her way to Vienna to deliver a lecture, and disavowed connection with anarchist plots in France or elsewhere. M. Coms, French minister of justice, ordered her arrest for making incendiary speeches. The house of the Marquis de Mores was searched again and found to contain a large number of weapons.

A warrant has been issued for the arrest of the Duke de Tynes, who has been arrested three times and found to be in violation of the law. The authorities will allow no interruption of street traffic in Paris to-day, and street meetings of workers will not be permitted. In addition to the regular garrison of Paris, held in barracks ready for action, eight cavalry regiments have been put under the orders of the Governor of the city. They are on guard at the palace of the President, Carnot's residence, the legislative chambers and at other points where disorder is likely to occur. Vincennes has been garrisoned by two regiments of cavalry drawn from Fontainebleau and Melun.

IS AFRAID FOR HIS LIFE.

The Czar's Sudden Return to St. Petersburg Caused by Warnings.

BERLIN, May 1.—Ball cartridges have been distributed among the troops in and around Potsdam, and trains have been ordered to be in readiness for a prompt start in case of reinforcements, should they be required.

It is reported here that the Czar's sudden return from Gatchina to St. Petersburg was due to warnings that his life might be endangered today, even though there was no labor demonstration. Emperor William has been advised to be absent from Berlin tomorrow, but he refuses to leave.

Riotous Proceedings Will Be Suppressed.

BERLIN, May 1.—While there will be no interference on the part of the government with orderly parades and the meetings any excess or disturbances of the peace will be rigorously suppressed and riotous proceedings will be mercilessly dealt with. No blank cartridges will be served to the troops, who will be held in readiness here and in all principal cities of the Empire.

Will Arrest the Duc de Luyne.

PARIS, May 1.—The arrest of the Marquis de Mores has led to the discovery that he has secret correspondence with the Duc de Luyne, a friend of the Duc d'Orleans. In searching the residence of the marquis papers were found incriminating the Duc de Luyne. The arrest of the latter has been decided on.

England and the Vatican.

LONDON, May 1.—The pope is said to feel deeply chagrined over the failure to establish regular diplomatic relations with England for it is now conceded that Lord Salisbury's government will take no steps in that direction, although desirous of maintaining friendly relations with the Vatican.

Bank Clerks Form a League.

LONDON, May 1.—A strike is imminent in a new quarter. The bank clerks, hard-worked and poorly paid, have formed a league, and a movement has been begun for the removal of the grievances and an increase of pay.

Surefoot Came in First.

LONDON, May 1.—The race for 2,000 guineas, the event at Newmarket, was won by Surefoot, Lenord second, and Blue Green third. Surefoot was the favorite and is now the strongest choice for the Derby.

HERMITAGE CREVASSE BREAKS.

The Hopeful Situation in the South Disappears Before a New Disaster.

NEW ORLEANS, La., May 1.—An ugly break in the levee at Hermitage, on the parish line of Pointe Coupee and West Baton Rouge, defeats the hopes which have lately been entertained of closing the Lobdell break and saving the six parishes lying below and which will be flooded by it.

The success met with in closing the Live Oak and Martinez crevasses created the hope that the Lobdell crevasse could also be closed. A large sum of money was raised by subscription for this purpose, a large force of hands and several boats were secured, and work was begun in earnest with Capt. Kingman, United States engineer, in command.

The chances of success seemed favorable when the levee broke at Hermitage, eighteen miles above. This rendered up the Lobdell levee superfluous and of no value. Even if it is built it will not be of the slightest value, for every acre of ground protected by it will be flooded by the Hermitage crevasse. It will be simply closing one door and opening another. The Hermitage break is, therefore, a serious disaster. Escape from crevasses for several days has restored the courage and the hopes of the people, and they had gone to work to rebuild their levees when this new disaster caused fresh demoralization. It will interrupt the work of rebuilding the levee, and Capt. Kingman, in consequence, takes a very gloomy view of it.

If Your Liver Remind You.

Of its existence by dull pain or sharp twinges in the right side, or beneath the scapular blade, except the liver is a warning, and regulate the organ without loss of time, by the use of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. The above symptoms are usually accompanied by yellowness of the skin, constipation, full red tongue, disorder of the stomach, sick headache and morning nausea. But a reform is promptly instituted by the Bitters, the best possible substitute for calomel, blue pill and other super-potent and harmful drugs erroneously designated as remedies for biliousness. Appetite and digestion are restored, and the bowels resume activity, when an impetus is given to the functions of health by this sterling anti-bilious medicine, which also has the effect of enriching and purifying the circulation, and fortifying the system against malarial infection, and the water. It is also highly beneficial for rheumatism, kidney and bladder troubles.
